

ISMACS NEEDLE LIST

I.S.M.A.C.S. SEWING MACHINE NEEDLES AND EQUIVALENTS

v.2b (updated June 1, 2010)

This is a compilation of information published by needle suppliers and manufacturers, mostly during the first half of the twentieth century. It is logically reduced from numerous sources which, for the most part, self-corroborated. Many apparent anomalies remain, especially with conflicting needle classes for the same machine. There may have been several versions of the model, for which different needles were specified; or it may have been merely an equivalent supplied by that maker who believed the substitute was similar enough to work. Each column contains the codes prescribed by the manufacturer named at the top; this may also help identify uses for those odd packets of vintage needles that turn up.

Finding the correct needle for a very old machine can be difficult. Some of the earlier needle classes are long obsolete (though they do appear occasionally on Ebay and specialist websites) and scarcity has made even the fairly recently popular 20x1* needle quite expensive. Fortunately, there are equivalents for most of them.

Most needle manufacturers adopted their own classification system, both to provide a comprehensive replacement service and to avoid copyright issues. Some systems are more specific than others. Singer and Free, for example, lump all 20x1 needles together, while the Boye system divides them further into three slightly different categories – others into more - sometimes varying by a few thousandths of an inch. All sewing machines wear differently, however, and this difference may or may not be critical.

Needle catalogues usually provided drawings of their needles to aid identification, though how helpful this was – freehand drawings, often on absorbent paper in an ultimately grubby booklet – remains a mystery. Certainly it allowed for greater tolerances than a few thou'. I've attached one as an example (appendix 1); all the American companies featured an almost identical list.

**In place of a 20x1 needle, it is often possible to compensate for the difference in needle length by setting a (shorter) 15x1 needle correspondingly lower in the needle clamp.*

Anything in the Model list in curved brackets indicates an alternative. Often the same needle information applied to two or more closely-named models that originally appeared with just a slight variation in the nomenclature – a letter missing or transposed, say, or a word added. These have been combined, with the variations in (curved) parentheses. E.g. Hackett, Hackett's and Hackett's Beauty would appear as Hackett('s) (Beauty). Confusions caused when models appeared with their names reversed were unavoidable (e.g. Sewer Queen or Queen Sewer?). To avoid doubt, I've tried to include both versions.

There are duplications; sometimes through abbreviation or poor spelling in catalogs but mostly intentionally, to facilitate simpler searching and to resolve ambiguities. Obvious spelling mistakes have been corrected but there are some very old machines featured about which little is known (and no-one seemed the slightest bit concerned about the correct spelling of 'jewel'). Apostrophes were mostly omitted by the catalog compilers, as they are here. Inaccurate, but faithful.

Manufacturers' names, where originally stated, have been included. Not all of them have been checked and some represent makers subsequently lost to mergers and take-overs. Whenever two manufacturers were indicated for the same model name, with the same needle data, both would be included (e.g. Free/New Home).

Every effort has been made to ensure that catalog data was copied faithfully and, therefore, any mistakes in the originals may have survived. This is only a guide and no responsibility can be accepted for misinformation. When experimenting with a new needle, try getting it to make one stitch first; then two or three, turning the machine by hand, before trying to sew. Every effort will be made to correct and update this list; meanwhile, errors and omissions will be gratefully received at production@ismacs.net

UNCORROBORATED ENTRIES

The information for these machines was published by Singer but it conflicts sufficiently with later lists to be queried. The needles suggested by other lists are DIFFERENT.

ERRATA

Updated 9th April 2010 (1)

American No. 7 (American 7)

Thanks to Ray Revette for bringing this to light but there is an explanation. Both Singer and Free report this machine as using a 1x2 needle (Free FF) from which, this entry was originally compiled. However, Boye shows it using a different needle (their #26); as do Brewer (their "A" needle) and Bryson's ('1X'). Could an American No. 7 user help here, please?

Singer are also responsible for the stray listings of the 29x3 needle when (to take the American 1 & 2 as examples) other sources showed a 1x1. Also, the Wanzer A, B & C listing (see above) looked suspicious.

I inadvertently put a stray Boye number in the 24x1 listing and I apologise. It has been removed (thanks Rebecca R. and Ray). The following machines therefore have been updated: Banner, Betsy Ross, Comet, Eldredge Automatic, Elna, Leslie, Lockman, Martha Washington, Müller, New Columbia, Singer 20, Singer Toys [1910-50], Singer Sewhandy, So-Toy and Stitchwell.

206x13

The 206x13 is NOT the same Free Rotary CC (40F1, 38Y1) and the list has been amended. Myths of the two being interchangeable have entered folklore, but that is all they are. Indeed, one sewing machine help site currently reports that New Home told their people to sell 206x13 when they ran out of CC needles (!) but the evidence is anecdotal.

There is a measurable difference between them.

I'm grateful to Cathy Nelson and Bill Holman for putting me right and to Cathy for this photo showing the differences. From top to bottom, the needles shown are: 15x1 206x13 & Free CC.

I'm also grateful to Nancy Yeomans for pointing out the missing headers (06/10)

Thank you all for your help and support.
